

Digital Marketing Strategy Project Breakdown

We are going to be “Deloitte Digital,” a full-service creative media consultant group

Our product is “Beyond Meat”

1. Market Research:

- Purchase and try Beyond Meat’s products (if you can) from a store or a restaurant that serves it
- Visit local supermarket to see how plant-based meat is displayed, sold, etc.

2. Case Study Challenge (Scope):

Target -->

- Opportunity to improve profits, brand recognition, and market share among consumers aged 18-44 and plant-based meat competitors

What We Have to Do -->

- Provide a digital marketing strategy, action plan, and recommendations supported by our experiences, the material we learned in class, and research that we will conduct online
- $10 million budget!
- Final Deliverables:
 - o PowerPoint Deck
 - 3 Banner Ads (each a different size)
 - Search campaigns with 2 ad groups
 - Containing 2 ads and 10 keywords each
 - 3 social media posts
 - 1 video for pre-roll or TikTok

✓ The PowerPoint deck, with a voiceover similar to the mid-term, should not exceed 20 slides, including an Executive Summary slide.

✓ All display ads should follow IAB standards.

✓ The pre-roll or TikTok video ad should be between 15-30 seconds; 20 seconds is the industry standard (upload as a separate file)

✓ There is no required template to encourage creativity when presenting your strategy.

✓ There is no right or wrong answer; however, I expect your strategy to be data-driven to explain your rationale and tactics to drive awareness and sales.

✓ The deck and video should be uploaded to Brightspace by the team leader on or before the due date.

3. Background Information:

<https://www.beyondmeat.com/en-US/>

- Mission: “Serve love.”
- What is it?: Plant-based meats with simple, non-GMO ingredients with no cholesterol, not antibiotics, and no hormones
- Products: Burgers, Ground Beef, Meatballs, Sausage, Breakfast Sausage, Steak, Chicken
- Founded in 2009 by Ethan Brown
 - o The company's initial products were launched in the United States in 2012
 - o The company went public in 2019

<https://www.theguardian.com/food/2022/sep/24/plant-based-meat-failed-impossible-burger-mcdonalds-beyond-meat>

- “Getting meat eaters in the US to adopt plant-based alternatives has proven a challenge”
- “Multiple chains that partners with the company, including McDonald’s, have quietly ended trail launches”
 - o Laid off 4% of its workforce as a result
- Plant-based meat started hitting the mainstream in 2018
- Even when participants in a study conducted at Purdue University in Indiana were given information about the carbon footprint of meat production, participants were more likely to go with regular meat over a plant-based alternative.
- When making their arguments against plant-based meat, lobbyists for the meat industry have pointed out that these meat alternatives are processed food.
- Plant-based meat has also struck a nerve in America’s neverending culture wars. Ten conservative states in 2018 and 2019 outlawed the use of “meat” in labels for products that are not coming from animals, targeting the plant-based meat industry.

https://www.foodnavigator-usa.com/Article/2022/09/28/future-of-plant-based-meat-the-addressable-market-may-be-more-limited-than-many-thought-says-deloitte/?utm_source=copyright&utm_medium=OnSite&utm_campaign=copyright

- Sales of plant-based meat alternatives surged by 45% in 2020 pushing the category past the billion-dollar mark
- In 2021, sales were flat
- In 2022, dollar sales went as flat at -0.9% and units down -7.2% in August 2022 vs August 2021
- Cultural resistance to product according to Deloitte
- Positive perceptions of plant-based meat alternatives have declined
- Willingness to pay a premium on PBAs when COGS is high is declining

<https://www2.deloitte.com/us/en/insights/industry/retail-distribution/future-of-fresh-food-sales/plant-based-meat-sales.html>

- The addressable market may be more limited than many thought. Dramatically improved taste in recent years (vouched for by seven in 10 consumers) unlocked new interest in PBA meat.⁶ But the portion of the US population open to trying (and repeat buying) it may already have reached a saturation point. The number of consumers who sometimes buy PBA meat for themselves or a household member did not grow in 2022 (figure 1). The half (53%) who aren't buying it may not be easily reachable, partly due to cultural resistance to a product some view as "woke."⁷ Others, many of whom say they want to reduce their red meat consumption, still aren't interested in PBA meat.⁸
- With inflation, fewer people are willing to pay a price premium. Paying more is a tough ask amid high food-price inflation. Willingness to pay a premium for PBA meat dropped 9 percentage points from last year and remained well below the number of people who say they would pay a premium for the best traditional fresh food.⁹ PBA meat producers believe they are on the path to achieving cost parity with animal meat, partly because animal meat prices are rising. But until they get there, price will likely continue to be a PBA headwind—especially for consumers who are less passionate about the product.
- Some assumed benefits are being questioned by consumers. Even buyers of PBA meat are changing their views on some of its attributes. The biggest change is in health perceptions. Many early adopters believed that the health benefits of plants would apply to all food products made from plants. Last year, almost seven in 10 consumers (68%) who had purchased PBA meat believed it was healthier than animal meat. But some of these consumers are changing their minds, as this year, the number dropped by 8 percentage points. A similar but smaller drop occurred with environmental sustainability, down 5 percentage points.¹⁰

<https://plantbasednews.org/lifestyle/food/taco-bell-beyond-meat-carne-asada/>

- "At Taco Bell, we've long believed that anyone should be able to choose plant-based menu items without compromising the flavors they crave," chief innovation officer Liza Matthews said in a company statement.
- A positive reception to Taco Bell's Carne Asada Steak dish could offer Beyond Meat something of a lifeline.
- Despite significant and sustained drops in share prices, Beyond Meat appears to be doubling down on its assertion that it knows what consumers want and how to get it to them.

<https://plantbasednews.org/news/economics/mcdonalds-mcplant-ireland-hit/>

- Following the launch of its first vegan burger, the McPlant, in Ireland at the start of the year, McDonald's has revealed that demand for the menu item has been promising.

- Offered in 600 of the 13,800 US restaurants in operation, the US McPlant has reportedly delivered lackluster results since analysis began in February this year. Following the trial's ending, McDonald's has not formalized any plans to continue selling its plant-based burger option in the US.
 - o Unlike the UK version, the US McPlant was not suitable for vegans: it contained American dairy cheese and egg-based mayonnaise.
- McDonald's stated that diners could request their burger without the mayo and cheese. Though the patties were still cooked on the same grill as regular beef patties. This drew criticism from consumers and may have prevented some vegan consumers from buying the menu item at all.
- Restaurant Business Online has speculated about why the McPlant trial may not have been as successful in the US. It noted that a number of the trial locations were in smaller towns, and in these areas, plant-based products do not tend to be as popular.

4. Digital Marketing Strategy

4Ps

- Product
 - o Emphasize Beyond Meat's taste, quality, and nutritional value compared to animal-based meat.
 - o Highlight core products such as Beyond Burger, Beyond Sausage, and plant-based chicken.
 - o Showcase transparency of ingredients: pea protein, brown rice, coconut oil, iron, and beet juice extract for color.
 - o Introduce limited-edition co-branded items with restaurants (e.g., Beyond Chicken Nuggets at Chick-Fila-A). Align brands with recommendation, Chic Fila, Shake Shack, Moe)
- Price
 - o Exclusive Value Bundles: Create exclusive value bundles that are only available at
 - o Offer competitive wholesale pricing for bulk purchases to attract large-scale buyers.
 - o Provide volume-based discounts to incentivize higher order quantities.
- Place
 - o Increase visibility through e-commerce (Amazon Fresh, Instacart, Walmart.com) and DTC via Beyond Meat's website.
 - o Feature fast food chains and restaurants on social media using geotagged promotions (e.g., "Find Beyond Near You").
- Promotion

- Leverage social media platforms heavily used by Gen Z and Millennials: TikTok, Instagram, YouTube Shorts.
- Run a TikTok challenge: #BeyondTheGrill – users show off creative Beyond Meat recipes.
- Launch influencer partnerships with foodies, athletes, and social media cooks through short-form video (e.g., Reels, TikToks) on, taste tests, and health benefits.
- Paid media: Allocate budget to Google Search Ads, retargeting, and influencer content boosting.

5. BCG Matrix

🌟 Stars – High Growth, High Market Share

Beyond Burger

Beyond Meat's flagship product, widely recognized and leading the plant-based burger market. It's a staple in both retail and foodservice channels, contributing significantly to brand growth.

💰 Cash Cows – Low Growth, High Market Share

Beyond Meatballs

Convenient and easy-to-prepare, these meatballs have secured a loyal customer base, providing a reliable revenue stream with minimal marketing efforts.

❓ Question Marks – High Growth Potential, Low Market Share

Beyond Chicken

An alternative to traditional chicken products, this offering is still gaining traction. Strategic partnerships and promotions could enhance its market position.

🐾 Dogs – Low Growth, Low Market Share

Beyond Breakfast Sausage

Despite efforts to capture the breakfast market, this product has experienced limited consumer adoption, resulting in lower sales and growth.

Redemptions via partners: 50,000+

10. Recommendations

As Deloitte Digital, our key strategic recommendations to grow Beyond Meat's brand recognition, market share, and profitability among consumers aged 18–44 are:

1. Expand Restaurant Collaborations: But Do It Right

Prioritize fully vegan menu items with partners like Moe's, Shake Shack or Chick-Fil-a that align with Beyond Meat's values and audience expectations.

Why? The McPlant trial in the U.S. struggled due to a lack of vegan authenticity (dairy mayo, cooked on meat grills). Authenticity matters, especially to Gen Z and wellness-focused consumers.

2. Rebuild Trust Through Ingredient Transparency

Launch a digital mini-campaign like "What's In Beyond?" that breaks down ingredients, sourcing, and health benefits in a fun, educational way.

Why? Consumers like Elisa want clarity and not just buzzwords. Transparency boosts confidence and purchase intent.

3. Boost Trial with Smart Pricing

Offer value bundles, limited-time deals, and coupon codes via HelloFresh, Trader Joe's, and DoorDash. Include promo codes in influencer kits and paid social.

Why? Price is one of the biggest trial barriers. Lowering risk through pricing drives first-time purchases and brand exposure.

4. Influencer-Led Education

Work with micro and mid-tier influencers to create authentic content that demystifies Beyond Meat's ingredients, highlights flavor and reinforces lifestyle benefits.

Why? Millennials and Gen Z trust influencers more than brands. Peer-to-peer storytelling builds credibility and deeper engagement.

🔥 5. Create a Sense of FOMO

Run seasonal, limited-edition launches (e.g., “Beyond Fiesta Bowl” for Cinco de Mayo, “Beyond BBQ Packs” for summer). Leverage exclusivity and trend culture.

Why? Gen Z and Millennials are driven by trends and shareable moments. Limited drops drive urgency and buzz. (Special line extension)
